A PROPOSAL FOR THE STURGESS FAMILY

The Gift to Tell Their Stories

“I would like them to have the opportunity to really tell their story, because they wouldn't otherwise offer it up.”

9 OCTOBER 2026

Why we're here.

“I see friends whose parents pass away, and the story only gets captured almost at the funeral.”

HENRY, ON THE CALL

- Your dad started work at 16, retired last year, sang in City choirs — and his memory is starting to go.
- You've been in Brazil since 2010. Home every quarter. Not there for the stories that fall out over a pub lunch.
- Your mum grew up and travelled across Africa, and she still remembers the things he forgets.
- The cast: two parents. You. Four grandchildren behind them.

This part never changes.

EVERY OPTION CONTAINS THIS

THE PART THAT NEVER CHANGES

WHAT THAT MEANS

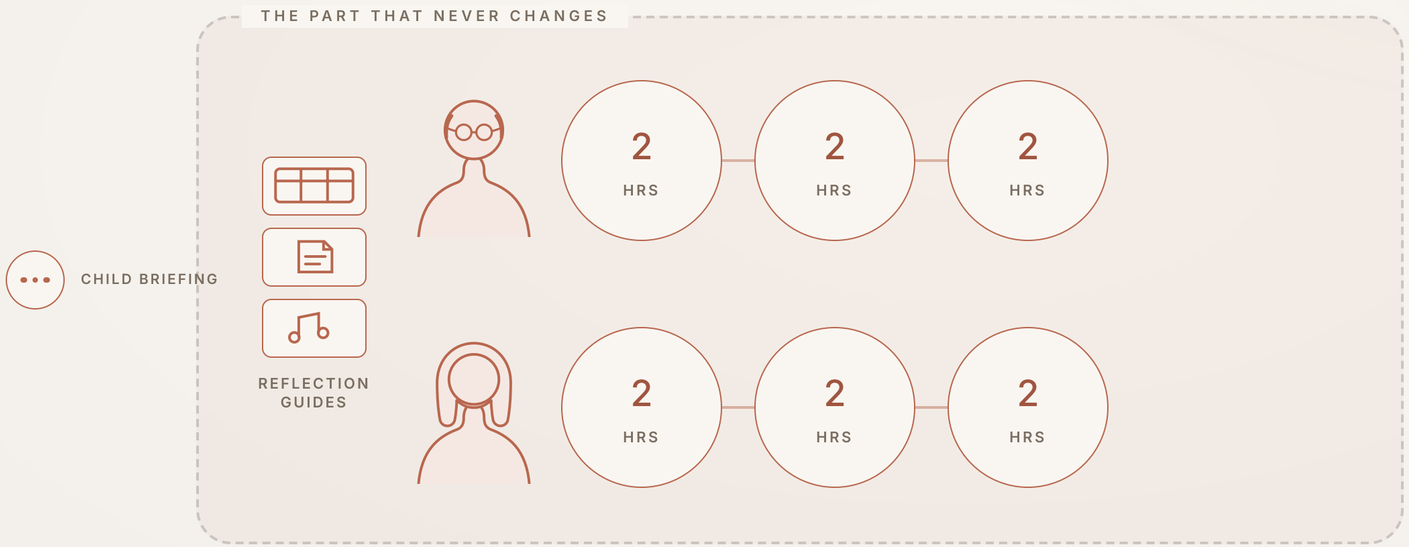

Your mum and your dad's stories in their own voices.

A gift they get to experience, not just unwrap.

Something your daughter can play in forty years.

Nobody walks in cold.

BEFORE ANY OF YOU SPEAK TO ME

WHAT THAT MEANS

A gift they get to experience, not just unwrap.

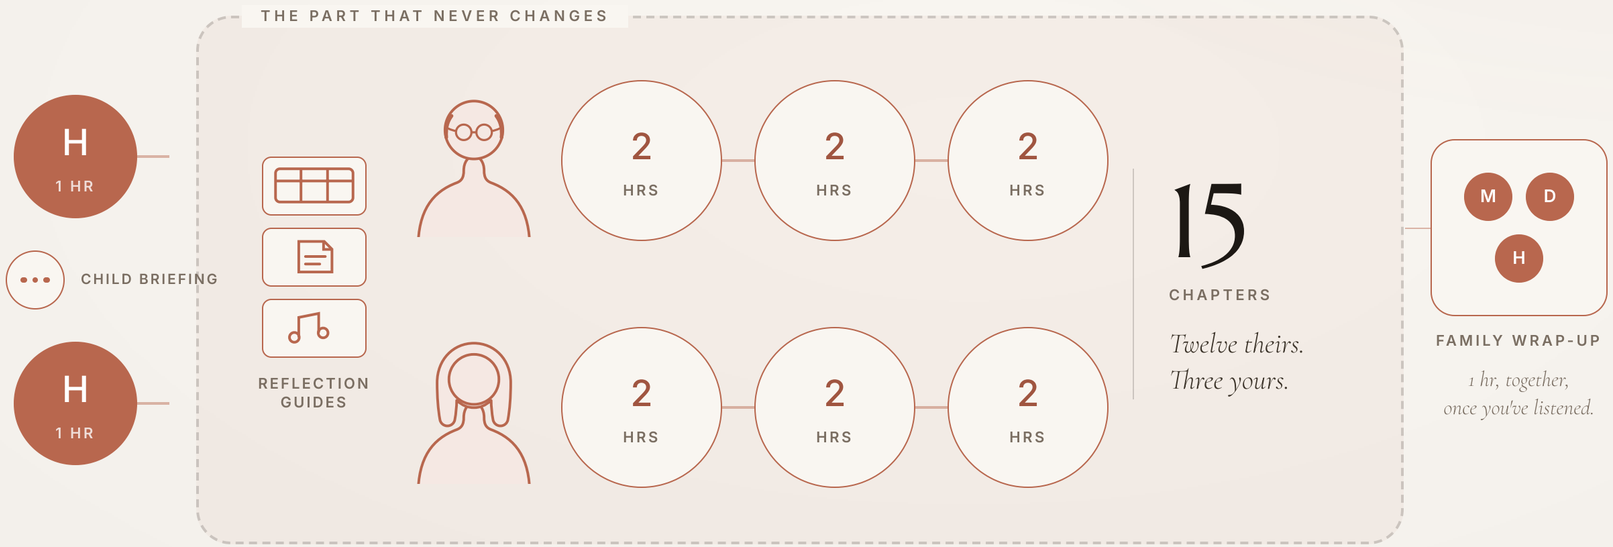

Something your daughter can play in forty years.

Nobody is put on the spot. Everyone arrives having already remembered.

I arrive briefed on what's important.

Your hour, in the record.
